

Saskatchewan
Prairie Conservation
Action Plan

Prairie's Got the Goods Week!

Webinar: Pollination in the Prairies

Photo by M. Kohler

Jessamyn Manson, Assistant Professor, University of Virginia and Adjunct Professor, University of Alberta

Monday March 13th, 2017 at 3:00pm

Register for Free: <https://attendee.gotowebinar.com/register/2176038345717019138>

Pollination is a key ecosystem service that increases yield of many crops and maintains diversity of flowering plants in native grasslands. The prairie provinces are home to hundreds of species of native bees, but there is still a lot to learn about which species live where and how common, or rare, these species are. In this talk, I'll examine the role of native pollinators in prairie ecosystems, focusing on their natural history, ecology and contributions to agriculture.

More Information

SK PCAP: 306.352.0472
pcap@sasktel.net or www.pcap-sk.org

This Presentation is Brought to You By:

This project was undertaken with the financial support of:
Ce projet a été réalisé avec l'appui financier de :

Environment and Climate Change Canada

Environnement et Changement climatique Canada

